

Week 1- Klaus

Jesper starts out the movie very selfish, but seeing kindness around him changes everything. What is something that changed the way you see the world?

What keeps you from showing kindness when you know someone else needs it?

Do you agree with the statement " Kindness is lending someone your strength"? Why or why not?

Alva and Klaus showed Jesper a new way to dream. Who's someone in your life you rely on when you need to see something in a different way?

Read Galatians 6:9

What's something good you've been tempted to give up on doing?

What would it take for your faith to be something people could see because of your actions?

Who's your one right now? Someone you could show the love of Jesus to. Someone who just needs some hope or kindness.

What's one bold act of kindness you can do this week, even if it feels uncomfortable?
